Frank G. Jackson Mayor, City of Cleveland 2010 In Tribute Honoree

As the city of Cleveland's 56th mayor, Frank G. Jackson's goals are to heal divisiveness that has challenged the city; bring excellence back to the Cleveland Metropolitan School District; attract and retain jobs for residents; continue progress in revitalizing the city's diverse neighborhoods; work with suburban mayors and officials to create a regional economy; and deliver quality services to residents and businesses.

Born and raised in Cleveland, Mr. Jackson attended the Cleveland schools, received an associate's degree from Cuyahoga County Community College, and bachelor, master and law degrees from Cleveland State University. He received CSU's Distinguished Alumni Award in 2006.

A Vietnam War veteran, he was elected to Cleveland City Council in 1989 to represent Cleveland's Ward 5. He served as council member for 16 years, during which time Ward 5 enjoyed a revival with a thriving community, new housing developments and new small businesses. Councilman Jackson's work benefitted not only his own ward but the entire city as he attracted millions of dollars in new investments from the federal government and private sector. He served as chair of the Community and Economic Development Committee and during that time, worked to renew downtown and neighborhoods.

In 2002, Mr. Jackson was elected by the 21-member City Council to serve as Council President. During his tenure, City Council worked to retain jobs, encourage new businesses and growth in the city, and improve the quality of life for people in Cleveland. In 2005, his commitment to the City of Cleveland prompted him to run for Mayor.

Mayor Jackson wants his time in office to be judged on "what we do for the least of us." His vision for Cleveland is "One People, One City, One Mission."
